Texas Appleseed Accepting Applications for Free LSAT Prep Course

AUSTIN, Texas — Texas minority students interested in law school can apply for a scholarship for a free Kaplan LSAT prep course. Texas Appleseed is assisting with the full cost of the prep course as part of its Diversity Legal Scholars Program.

Scholarship recipients must be Texas residents, a minority, apply to take the LSAT on the Sept. 27, 2014 test date, and must plan to enter law school by Fall 2015. To apply, applicants must submit the following materials via email or postmarked mail by May 30, 2014.

- Completed two-page application signed by the applicant.
- Resumé, including work experience and community service.
- Copy of college transcript (and any graduate school transcripts).
- Financial need documentation (tax return or proof of financial aid).
- One letter of recommendation from a working professional.
- A statement of economic, social or personal disadvantage, if applicable (500 words).
- An essay that addresses a current issue that relates to the legal field and diversity (350-750 words).

The application, contact information and general information can be found at TexasAppleseed.net or <http://bit.ly/DiversityLegalScholars>.
